Employment Staffing Agencies

How does a staffing agency work?

- Companies pay the agency to find employees for them. Job seekers can apply for specific jobs through the staffing agency or can simply contact them looking for a job. The agency interviews the job seekers and places them in appropriate positions.

Do recruitment agencies take a cut of your salary?

- Most recruiters in staffing agencies are paid on commission, earning a fee based on your first year's salary when you get hired. (It doesn't come out of your pay. It's just an added expense for the company who hires you.)
